Degree Roadmaps

Degree roadmaps for music majors are plans for what courses should be taken in what order, depending on a student's chosen degree emphasis. Each music major should carefully follow his or her roadmap. Deviation from the order and distribution of courses in the roadmap for a particular emphasis may result in unsolvable conflicts between course meeting times or unreasonably heavy course loads in a given quarter. Those difficulties may delay a music major's planned date of graduation. The Music Department is not responsible for accommodating the graduation plans of a music major who does not follow his or her roadmap.

Music majors who transfer to CSUSB should make a special effort to follow recommended degree road maps. In scheduling classes and designing its curriculum, the Music Department has made a commitment to serving the specialized needs of transfer students. However, transfers student come to CSUSB with a wide variety of transferable music course work, so it is impossible to perfectly accommodate the needs of every transfer student. Each transfer music major should make every effort, in close consultation with a music advisor, to closely follow his or her roadmap.
